Golf Tip

Today's golf tip is more of an errors & omissions clarification/update.

As you know, we have been pushing folks to register for a CDGA/USGA Handicap this year. As such, my recent publications & marketing material had stated that the fee for this service would be $40. However, I was recently informed that the CDGA/USGA has increased the fee to $55. And while I was disappointed to learn of this increase, I remain committed to encouraging folks to register for a certified handicap. It's worth it!

An overview of some newly updated tee time policies

A couple of things we can all agree on here... one, we could've done without that most recent snowfall, and two, we are all eager to get this season underway and start booking those tee times. That said, we figured now would be an excellent time to share a couple of updates on our newly updated tee time policies. So, here is everything you need to know about tee times in 2026:

Ways to Book

Beginning this spring, we will be making a strong push to encourage folks to utilize our online booking engine to book tee times.

- Online- 10 days in advance
- Phone- 7 days in advance
- In-Person- 7 days in advance

Booking online is fast, easy, and provides our staff with the most up-to-date customer information. It will also help in streamlining the check-in process.

In Need of Special Arrangements?

We are always here to help accommodate your playing arrangements. Our consecutive start agreement is a great way to accommodate groups looking to secure a specific block of tee times. These arrangements can be custom tailored to meet the needs of the group whether large or small.
